Margulis Steps Down as Chair of Radiology After 26 Years

Alexander R. Margulis, professor of radiology, has stepped down as chair of the department, a position he has held for the last 26 years.

Margulis is a world leader in modern radiology—a field that has been revolutionized in part by UCSF, where Margulis has overseen a pace-setting team of clinicians and researchers, working to hone techniques that have resulted in fewer invasive procedures, faster diagnoses, fewer hospitalizations and less expense for today's patients.

When Margulis accepted the UCSF post, he had already been offered 11 other chairmanships. But he felt he could best carry out his vision at UCSF, where the success formula, he says, rested on assembling a team of experts in the physiology and pathology of organ systems, who also were trail blazers when it came to new imaging techniques.

Over the years, our campus investigators often have lead the way in that new technology. They helped to make CT into the clinical necessity that it is today, and they developed cine CT—the ultrafast computed tomography that allows unprecedented views of the beating heart. Another team developed one of the first magnetic resonance imaging (MRI) machines successfully used with patients and introduced the basic techniques used today in clinical practice.

And yet another team is at the forefront of developing a revolutionary new technique for studying body chemistry. Called magnetic resonance spectroscopy (MRS), the method poses no risk to the patient while it measures compounds in the body, and already is yielding dramatic new insights into how the body works.

Margulis will continue at UCSF as professor of radiology, director of the Magnetic Resonance Science Center and University Dean. (No, he has not reached emeritus status as was reported in the last issue of Newsbreak.)

This week, radiologist Charles Gooding (left) and Alex Margulis unveiled a portrait of the soon-to-step-down chairman in front of a packed hall of friends and colleagues. The portrait, by Amado Gonzalez, hangs near the elevators on the third floor of Moffitt, "So that," according to Charles Gooding, "Dr. Margulis can keep an eye on the comings and goings of his staff."

Glenn, vice-president of General Electric, during the center's dedication ceremonies on campus last Saturday. Located on the "C" level of the Ambulatory Care Center, the new center uses the latest technology, including the magnetic resonance spectrometer/ imager (on loan from GE and seen to the left of Glenn), to produce images of tissue and chemical spectra of actual disease processes.

Which Student Will Take Home the Gold?

One of these three medical school graduates—Linda E. Fitts of San Diego, Frances Herb of San Francisco or Richard S. Ponce of Santa Paula, CA—will be the winner of the School of Medicine's Gold-Headed Cane Award during evening commencement ceremonies on Friday, May 26, at 6 p.m. at the Masonic Auditorium.

The Cane is presented to the UCSF senior medical student judged by classmates and faculty as best exemplifying the qualities of a "true physician."

The Wednesday evening before graduation, all three students will be inducted into the Gold-Headed Cane Society at a banquet at the Mark Hopkins Hotel.

A major event of the evening will be the William J. Kerr Gold-Headed Cane Lecture delivered by Alexander Margulis, professor and chair, radiology. He will discuss "The Impact of New Technology on Radiology and the Practice of Medicine." (See adjacent story for more news on Margulis.)

See the next issue of Newsbreak for the winner of the Gold-Headed Cane, plus which faculty received Kaiser Awards, and which faculty the graduating students have chosen to receive Excellence in Teaching Awards.

"Teacher for a Day"

Some 120 San Francisco middle and high school students get a chance to switch roles with their teachers this month, as they compete for cash prizes in a science and health teaching contest sponsored by UCSF, in cooperation with the SF Unified School District.

The contest, part of the larger Science Education Partnership (SEP) program, will be one of the "birthday gifts" UCSF will give to the city in connection with our 125th celebration. It is a way to help San Francisco teachers maintain quality science education in the schools.

The aim of the contest is to get students working in teams to experience the fun of science, and to examine a subject in depth by developing lessons for their classmates. UCSF judges will announce the winners in a campus ceremony on Tuesday, June 6, at 4 p.m. in Cole Hall. A total of 16 prizes amounting to $5,000 will be given. The money is donated by the Gordon M. Tomkins Fund of the Department of Biochemistry and Biophysics.

A "CPR Road Show"

"Saving a cardiac arrest victim doesn't involve magic," explains Denise Voelker. "It's more like a puzzle. But, it's really simple to figure out."

Denise is a member of the UCSF Center for Pre-Hospital Research and Training (CPRT), which works closely with the CPR (Cardiopulmonary Resuscitation) Center. She says, "All of this high-tech equipment we have today to save cardiac arrest patients is really great, but totally ineffective if people don't understand good old simple basics, such as recognizing medical emergencies, learning how to use '911,' and knowing CPR techniques."

Denise and members of the CPRT feel the best way to get the word out to people that these basics, including CPR, should be a much bigger priority is to "take the show on the road."

But, volunteers are needed to help them do that. This is not a CPR course. But, instead a way of telling people how important CPR is and to try to get them to take a CPR course. "Armed with a standardized presentation, slides, and a resuscitation-Annie, you can make a difference," says Denise.

Participants are offered several resources, including the CPR Center's regular classes and the upcoming "Save-a-Life Saturday," co-sponsored by UCSF and the SF Giants, in connection with our 125th celebration to be held at Candlestick on September 23. (Much more on this in future issues of Newsbreak.)

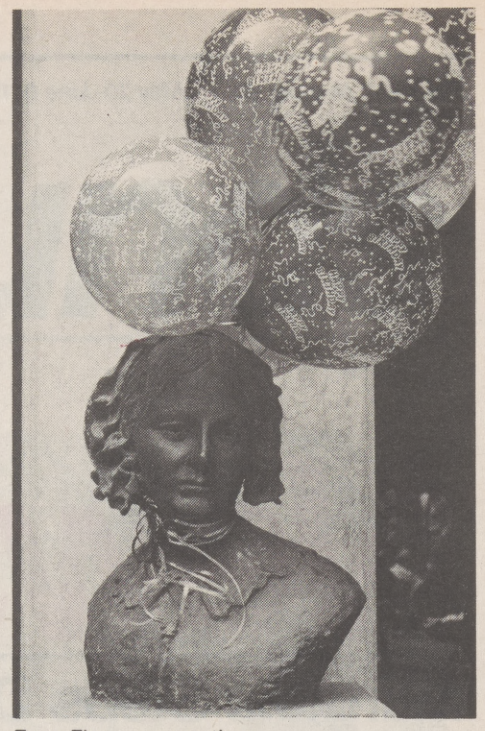
Interested in volunteering for the "CPR Road Show?" There is a teacher orientation and dinner on Wednesday, June 7, at 7 p.m. in Room L 191. Just call Denise at x68502.

Look Out . . . We're Turning Into a Regular Party Campus!

Well, we're not exactly Chico, but we do know how to party when there's something to crow about. What follows are a few shots of two special campus-wide occasions—the School of Nursing's 50th birthday celebration and our annual Chauncey Leake Day—where hundreds of campus folks set aside their lab coats, put down the pencils, turned off their computers and let themselves go.

To the rhythm of a catchy cha cha, tons of people lined up for the School of Nursing's 50th birthday cake. There was a lot of cake, but even more people. Estimated time cake lasted: 20 minutes.

A swinging Pat Pothier was there.



Even Florence was there.

Meanwhile, the UCSF Band played on at Chauncey Leake Day, bringing out all sorts of people to munch hotdogs, buy bedding plants, and of course to see who was going to take home prizes from the EMPACT! raffle. (See page 6 for those details.)

Lane Schickler

CED had its own Leake Day celebration with some of the entertainment provided by the children at the Mission YWCA Day Care Center at CED.

Graduate Division Commencement June 2

School of Pharmacy's Nina Agabian will be this year's commencement speaker at the Graduate Division's commencement on Friday, June 2, beginning at 2 p.m. in Cole Hall. Agabian, who is head of the Intercampus Program in Molecular Parasitology, will discuss "Science in the Global Village."

Twenty-seven students will receive degrees, representing a wide range of disciplines. Two will receive master's—1 in oral biology, 1 in endocrinology; 4 will receive their DNS; and another 21 their PhDs—4 in pharmacology, 3 human development & aging, 2 each in pharmaceutical chemistry, anatomy, bioengineering and medical anthropology, and 1 each in endocrinology, medical information science, pathology, physiology, psychology, and speech & hearing science.

Psychiatry Graduates 39

Thirty-nine students will graduate from the Department of Psychiatry during commencement on Friday, June 9, at 3 p.m. in Toland Hall.

Among the graduates there will be 23 residents in psychiatry, including 5 from the UCSF/Fresno Medical Education Program, 4 fellows in child psychiatry, 1 fellow in forensic psychiatry, 3 predoctoral fellows in clinical psychology, 4 postdoctoral fellows in clinical psychology, 1 doctor of philosophy in health psychology and 3 doctors of philosophy in human development & aging.

During the ceremony, a psychiatry faculty member will be honored with the UCSF/LPPI Alumni Faculty Association Interdisciplinary Achievement Award. Up to six psychiatry graduates also will receive major awards during two other ceremonies.

Summer Youth Program Sign-ups

Now is the time for departments to sign up for the annual city-wide Summer Youth Employment Program, which provides jobs and training for low-income, disadvantaged high school students. Last year, over 100 students worked on our campus through this worthwhile program.

This year's program runs June 26 to August 18. By now, all departments should have received worksite request forms. They must be returned to Bob Rojas at Box 0802 no later than Wednesday, May 24, in order for this program to again be successful. For further information call x65357.

Dental School Graduates 103

The School of Dentistry will graduate 86 dental and 17 dental hygiene students on Saturday, June 10, at 1 p.m. at the Masonic Auditorium. A champagne reception will follow the ceremonies at the Mark Hopkins Hotel.

One of the graduates will be presented the prestigious Francis A. Sooy Chancellor's Cup for exhibiting scholastic excellence, professionalism and leadership potential.

Vernon Tueller, fixed prosthodontics, will address the graduates, while C. Stanley Lawrence, clinical professor, general restorative dentistry, will serve as grand marshal.

The School's annual awards ceremony will take place on Wednesday, May 31, at 4:30 p.m. in Room C 701. See the next issue of Newsbreak for all the student winners.

Hey, That's a Big Check

Award-Winning HIV Infection Video

Free copies of a videotape scripted by Julie L. Gerberding on HIV precautions for health care employees have been distributed to some 500 teaching institutions across the nation.

The tape, which won a local civic award for best corporate training program, teaches health care professionals and workers how to avoid accidental, on-the-job contact with body substances. Gerberding is UCSF assistant professor of medicine and director of the HIV counseling and testing service at SFGH.

The pharmaceutical company Syntex commissioned the video and underwrote production and distribution costs.

A limited quantity of tapes is available to hospital-based physicians responsible for infection control. Call Jim Trah, product manager at Syntex, at 354-7378.

But, I Don't Know How to Write It!

You're in a cold sweat. You're tense. You think you have all your facts in order, but where to begin? What's the problem? You have to write a research paper, and you don't know where to begin.

If you're a junior faculty member, postdoctoral fellow, advanced graduate student or faculty member, and are in a sweat over your research paper, there's help. The Office of the Senior Vice Chancellor, Academic Affairs, is sponsoring a workshop on "Writing the Successful Research Paper" on Wednesday, May 31, from 2 to 4 p.m. in HSW 300.

At this panel discussion, campus editors, writers and researchers will share their experiences on manuscript submission and peer review, study design and analysis, reviewing the literature and how to plan and structure the research paper.

Interested? Call x61881 or x62218 by Friday, May 26.

In Memoriam

Charles F. Forester, associate clinical professor, medicine. A San Francisco internist for some 30 years, he was a native of Poland. After graduating from the Vienna Medical School in 1937, he fled the Nazis and served in the US Navy during WW II. He taught in the UCSF thyroid clinic from 1959 until his retirement in 1985. He also was a consultant and conducted weekly diabetes research seminars at Mount Zion. He was named a fellow of the American College of Physicians in 1963. A special Endocrine Grand Rounds will be held in his honor on Friday, May 26. (See calendar on page 4.) Donations may be made to the Charles Forester Memorial Fund, Asian Art Museum Foundation, Golden Gate Park, SF 94118.

John C. Demarest, third-year resident, psychiatry. A summa cum laude graduate of the University of Minnesota, he received his MD in 1986 and joined the general psychiatric residency program at UCSF that same year. His interests were in both doing research and treating patients, particularly in the area of substance abuse. He was scheduled to finish the residency program this summer and begin a two-year VAMC fellowship.

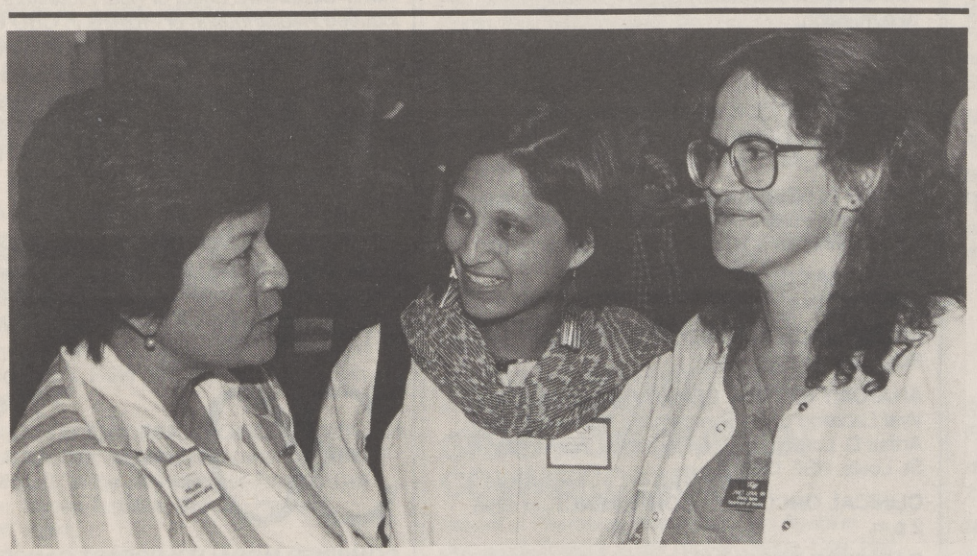
Manuel P. Gonzalez. He came to UCSF in 1973 as an accounting assistant working on employee retirement and benefit programs. He left the University in 1979 and returned in 1982 to work on disability benefits. He received an outstanding performance award in 1985.

Sleisenger Receives Friedenwald Medal

Fred Mertz

Marvin H. Sleisenger, professor and vice chair for academic affairs in the Department of Medicine, and acting director of the UCSF Cancer Research Institute, was presented the Julius Friedenwald Medal of the American Gastroenterological Association at its 90th annual meeting on May 15. The medal, named for one of the Association's founders, honors Sleisenger's life-long contributions to research, teaching and patient care in gastroenterology.

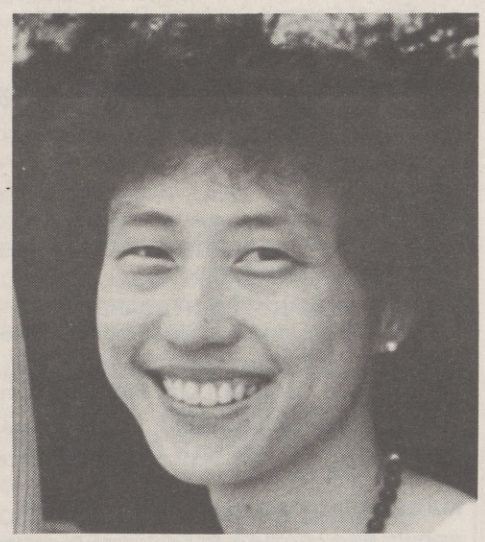
In a distinguished 40-year career, Sleisenger has served as president of the Association, member of its board, and editor of its journal, Gastroenterology, and is well known as co-editor of the premiere textbook in his field, Gastrointestinal Disease. He is a master of the American College of Medicine and member of the Royal Society of Medicine in London.



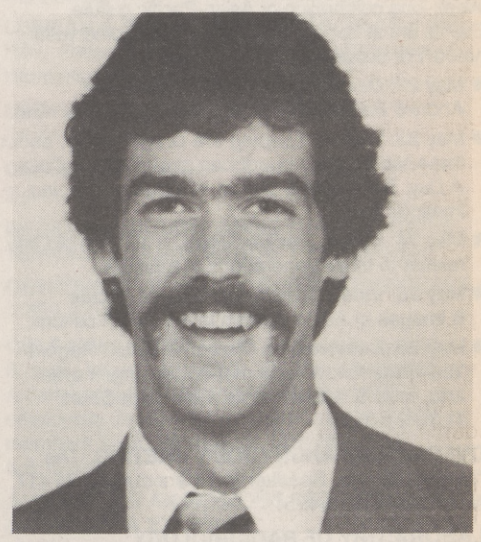
When Three Lei(y)vas Meet

When Janet Leiva (right), a clinical nurse in dialysis, saw the name Priscilla Gonzales-Leiva (left) listed on the slate of speakers for the School of Nursing's Hispanic Nurse Symposium the first week of May, she made plans to attend. "I had never met anyone outside of my family with the same last name," she said. During the course of the program, not only did she meet Priscilla, but another person with the same last name—Kathleen Leyva (center), a nursing student at SF State. (Leyva is the Mexican spelling for Leiva.) The purpose of the symposium was to celebrate and inspire Hispanic nurses, as well as to address the health cares issues of the Hispanic community.

First Center for AIDS Research Grants to Tong-Starksen, Hellman



Tong-Starksen



Hellman

Sandra Tong-Starksen and Nick Hellman have received the first two grants to be awarded by UCSF's newly formed Center for AIDS Research (CFAR). They will each receive $50,000.

Tong-Starksen will continue her work in Matia Peterlin's laboratory on the study and comparison of cellular and molecular controls of replication in HIV-1 and the HIV-2 common to West Africa. Hellman receives support for his study of HIV and sexually transmitted diseases in Kampala, Uganda in East Africa, where he is working closely with Ugandan scientists and clinicians.

The Center for AIDS Research, co-directed by noted UCSF researchers Paul Volberding and John Ziegler, provides an intellectual and administrative base for the large and rapidly growing number of AIDS researchers working at many UCSF sites, as well as at UC Berkeley and the SF Department of Public Health.

Police Auction June 2

Need a bicycle? Maybe some jewelery or a watch? And would you like to get them cheap? Well, save some time during the morning of Friday, June 2, from 9 a.m. to noon for our Police Department's annual auction in Saunders Court. Several lost and found items will be auctioned off to top bidders.

Is Your Campus Address Correct?

By now, faculty and staff employees should have received verification forms from the Campus Locator System (CLS) to update our computers (and thus our campus telephone directory). Forms are to be filled out (only if there are changes) and mailed to CLS, Box 0976, no later than Friday, June 9. For further information call Diane Iwahashi at x63929.

Benefits/Personnel

US Savings Bonds—Highest Return in Three Years

Benefits' Mary Kahn has forwarded a notice from the systemwide office proclaiming that "US savings bonds will earn interest at an annual rate of 7.81% for the next six months, the highest rate of return in three years."

An accompanying brochure elaborates: Each May and November the Treasury Department announces the market-based rate for interest periods beginning in the following six months, along with the market-based averages logged by bonds issued previously. When a bond has been held five or more years, the market-based average applying to it (or minimum rate if higher—currently 6%) is rounded to the nearest quarter of a percent and applied from date of purchase to determine redemption value.

If that's hard for you to understand, try this: When you hold savings bonds for at least five years, you earn a rate based on the average return of five-year Treasury securities costing $5,000 or more. But your cost to start buying bonds is as small as $100, the minimum amount you can purchase by payroll deduction. The bonds also are available in amounts of $200, $500 or $1,000.

Forms are available from your department's benefits rep. More information is available by calling the Benefits request line, x64741, and asking for the savings bond brochure.

How Are the Funds Performing?

For those invested in the additional savings programs, here are the latest unit values and monthly factors (as of March 31). For further information, please call x61400.

	Monthly Factor	Current Rate
Savings	.0068	8.07
Money Market	.0080	9.43
GIC	.0075	8.87

	Unit Value	1-Month Change	2-Month Change
Bond	33.63	1.0	6.1
Equity	54.15	1.2	13.2

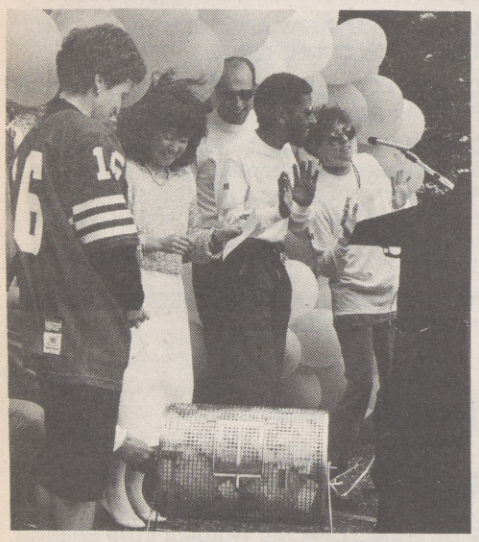
EMPACT!



Top Winner

There were over 100 prizes in all, and if you want to find out who won them, check the sign in the Millberry Union lobby.

Who are those Rafflettes? None other than MU's George Hair, D'Wayne Thomas and Karen Attix.

Top Seller

Here is Med Center Administration's Joan Guerra, working away selling plants at the CED Chauncey Leake celebration—while up at the Parnassus Chauncey Leake event her name was being announced as the top seller in the EMPACT! raffle. Joan sold 460 tickets by herself!

More top sellers: Carmen Miller, 380 tickets; Georganne Tucker, 205 tickets; and Maryanne Ladda, 180 tickets.

More than 6,000 tickets were sold altogether, which means more than $6,000 was raised for employee activities. From EMPACT! coordinator Gail Mametsuka: Thanks to the sellers, thanks to the buyers, thanks to the prize donors, and thank everybody for your continued support for EMPACT!

You're Invited to an Asian-Pacific Culture Fest May 26

Next Friday, May 26, plan to spend your lunch hour in Saunders Court. From 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. you can see things like Vietnamese musicians, lion dancers, Tae-Kwon-Do (Korean martial arts), a koto and flute player, Filipino dancers, and the jazz group "Cross Winds." There also will be delicious Asian snacks (to purchase), booths representing various community groups, and a special guest speaker, UC Regent Yori Wada.

The event is being put on by APASA (the new Asian Pacific American Systemwide Alliance on campus) and co-sponsored by EMPACT!, the Asian Health Caucus, and Health Education and Mobilization for Filipinos.

Earlier in the week, several related events are taking place: On Monday, May 22, Andrew Rader of the SF Institute of Traditional Chinese Medicine will present "Demystifying Chinese Medicine." The lecture will be at noon in HSW 300.

On Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, May 23 through 25, you can watch videos with Asian themes. Also at noon in HSW 300.

All these events are free and everyone is welcome. For further information, call EMPACT!, x66932.

Computerized Patient Scheduling Has Arrived in the Ambulatory Care Center

Last week, the General Medicine Clinics I and IV became the first ACC departments to use the new computerized patient scheduling system.

Next up will be the other two General Medicine clinics. Then, over the next year and a half, all the other clinics gradually will be converted.

What this means is that clerks no longer will be manually recording appointments, searching the pages for patients' names and then photocopying reams of pages for the records.

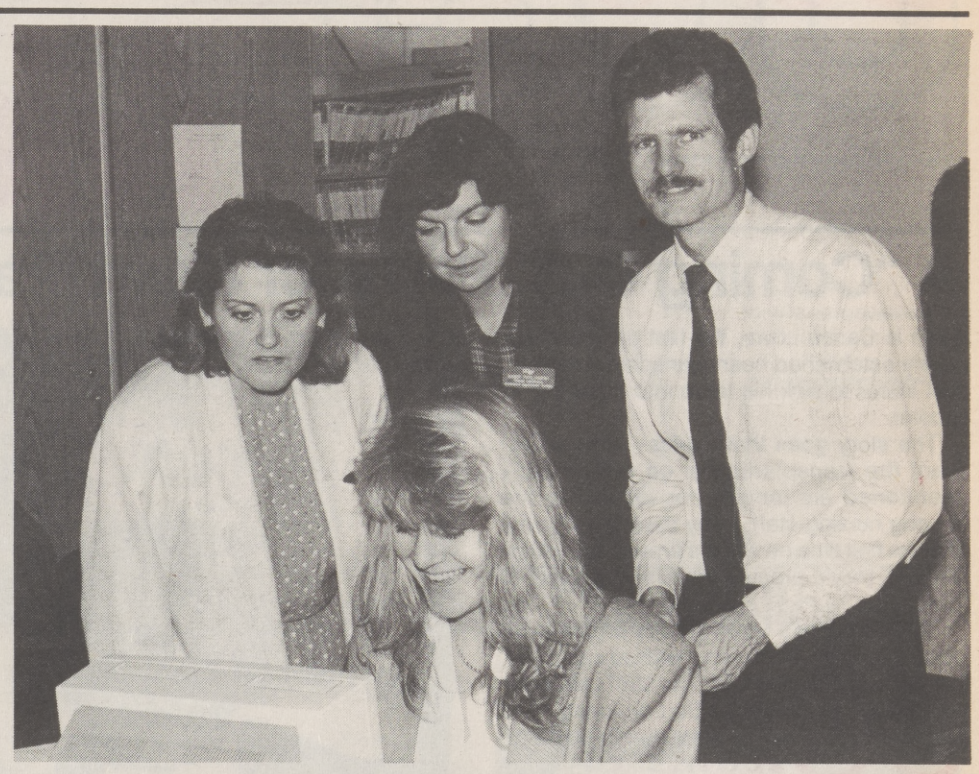
Instead, appointment information is plugged into a centralized booking system and then instantly recalled by either the patient's name or ID number. Beside the obvious—being faster and more efficient—the system provides automatic recordkeeping, plus it automatically produces appointment reminders, fail cards (for no-shows), and provides a means of tracking patient information, such as who shows up for appointments, who doesn't, how often, etc.

From the systems operations side, the main people involved in the development and implementation are Suzanne Williams and Ron Bailey from HISD.

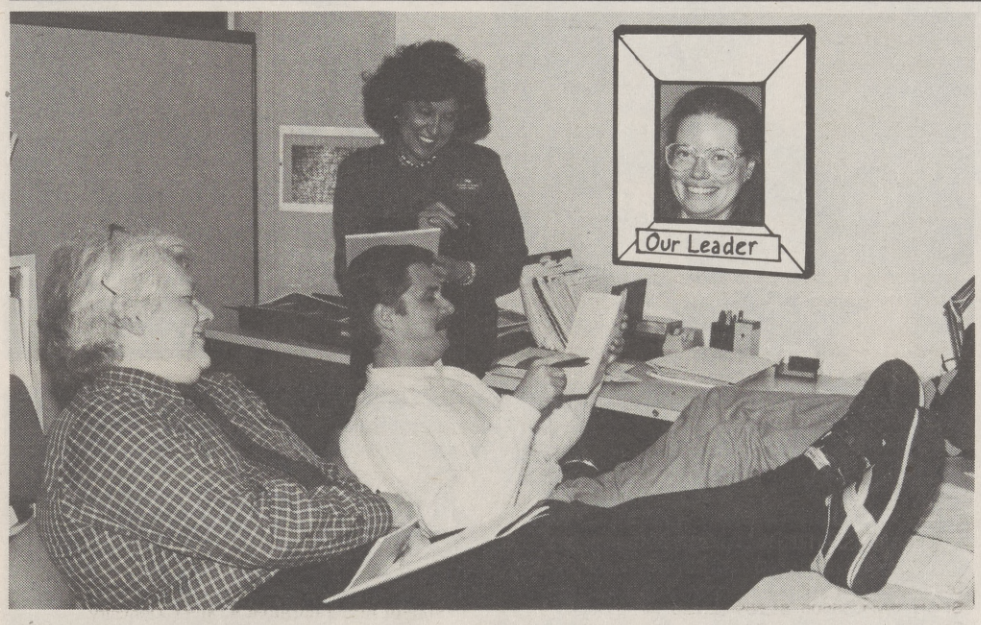
From the users' side, two new employees were hired specifically to work on this project: Sandra Isom and Nancy Parliament.

"Both deserve a lot of credit," says General Medicine IV head nurse Cindy Cutter. "They've worked really hard to make sure the system exactly meets the practice needs."

If you're involved in clinic scheduling, you'll get your chance to meet Sandy and Nancy. Both will be helping your department make the transition when your turn comes.



How would you like to be using the system for the first time and have all these experts—Sandy Isom, Nancy Parliament and Ron Bailey—watching over your shoulder? Ask GM IV's Lisbeth Jacobsen. She'll tell you it was only for the sake of the photo.



Life at CED

Medical Center Publications, which recently merged with Planning & Marketing, just moved from its previous office in Long 119 to Planning & Marketing's brand new headquarters at CED 306. Here you see Publications' Andy Hulett (left) and Dennis Piper adjusting to their new environment.

Their phone extension remains the same—65817—but their box number is new: 0940. (They'll still have a box at 0208). Dennis and Andy have said that anyone from the Old World (Parnassus) who pays them a visit will get treated to tea at the Folsom Diner.

In the background you recognize the Executive Registry's Liz Terra, whose program also recently merged with Planning & Marketing. Liz still can be found in L 119, at least part of the time. But she'll also be working part-time in the CED office. Her extension remains the same, 64444.

Right next door, in CED 305, Budget & Reimbursement just moved into their new headquarters. Their box number, 0824, and extension, 66796, are the same.

If you think this closes the chapter on CED remodeling and relocating, someone should tell you that for the past year the world has been turned upside down at CED while all the Med Center departments were being remodeled.

During the past couple of months, as the various areas have been completed, the units have been moving back in. The last to move will be Med Center Accounting, coming up this weekend.

Rumor has it that when everyone is settled, there's going to be an open house. And people from Parnassus—many of whom perhaps have never seen the CED headquarters—will be invited to hop on the shuttle and come take a look. Look for further information in a future issue.

Eight People Spent the Day in the Morgue

Patient Accounts' Shahed Mofidi (left) and Chemistry's Nathan Lee (right) had something to talk about at the "Spend a Day" reception last week when they learned that each had spent their "day" visiting the morgue.

As it turns out, morgue supervisor Barnie McLin had a total of eight visitors, and if the others had experiences similar to the above two, then they got an authentic picture of what goes on there!

Shahed said she'd never seen anything like it before, but she wasn't squeamish in the least. "I had my mind set for it. I was thinking in terms of science."

This was first time out in the "Spend a Day" program for both Shahed and Nathan. But it's not the last. Shahed already has her location picked out for next year. She'll visit the OR, where her colleague, Patient Accounts' Julie Cantu went this year and observed an artery bypass.

So is Julie thinking about trying the morgue next year? "No, I don't think so."

The Med Center's "Spend a Day" program is definitely growing. A total of 333 people took part in the program this year—over a hundred more than last year.

During the reception, Administration's Ron Schumacher gave a brief speech, thanking all the people who participated. "That includes not only the visitors, but also the hosts," he said. He also thanked the people who organized this year's event: chairs Joanne Pekohnen and Margie Wolcott, Melony Hamilton, Carolyn Taylor, Randy Jones, Bill Harris, Star Deppe, Maura Hopkins, Laurie Carlson, Jackie Jew, Kathleen Brown and Betty Pingree.

Finally, special thanks and a gift were presented to Melony Hamilton. She's the one who singlehandedly handled all the sign-ups!

Social Work Network

The meeting—the brainchild of our social work director Sylvia Olsen—was the first time people representing all the UC departments have gathered. "We wanted to meet our colleagues, trade information, and get a sense of how their departments are run," explains associate director Vanetta Bassett-Campbell.

Vanetta, by the way, very recently was appointed associate director. We'll have to make a proper introduction in a forthcoming issue of Medsounds.

Blood Drive at CED!

Next Tuesday, May 23, the Med Center's Blood Donor Center will hold its second blood drive at CED. The time is 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. and the place is conference room four on the first floor. They prefer that you sign up by calling x66989, but drop-ins are okay.

Listen to this: They're spicing up the event with a baseball theme and a raffle. How do you give a blood drive a baseball theme? Show up and find out.

P.S. The UCSF Council is co-sponsoring the drive.

Present for Your Pop

Now that you've got Mother's Day squared away, it's time to think about a present for your pop. Keep in mind that the Auxiliary will be having a three-day Father's Day gift sale on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, June 14 through 16. Location: Medical Science lobby. Time: 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Top Hat Produce will provide the wares: Gifts baskets and your choice of all kinds of chocolates, nuts, dried fruits and other dad-like items—including no-cholesterol trail mix—to put in them. A filled gift basket runs anywhere from $5 to $30 or so, and 10 percent of the proceeds will go to the Auxiliary.

A "Coming Out" Party for Heart Transplant Patient Carlos Lowe

Here is Carlos Lowe, the first patient in our newly established heart transplant program, just about to sink his teeth into a big bite of lobster.

The story goes that Carlos—who underwent the transplantation on March 28—mentioned his longing for lobster to the 7 Long nursing staff. They made him a deal that the first time he walked around the unit by himself, they'd procure for him the object of his desire.

This photo was taken shortly after Carlos came out of his room and walked not once, but twice around the unit. The staff called the manager of P.J.'s Oyster Bed on Irving, who had a big lobster dinner cooked and delivered gratis. The end of this story is that by now Carlos has left the hospital for his home in Berkeley, literally to begin a new life.

Before you call to complain about the cholesterol content of lobster, please be advised that the dinner—cooked without butter and offered as an occasional treat—met the approval of doctor and dietitian.

At this writing, a total of three heart transplants have been performed in the new program. According to Donald Magilligan, the program's surgical director, the team expects to do up to 20 transplants before the year is up.

P.S. Carlos is billed as the "first" heart transplant patient at UCSF because he's the first in the new program. The real first took place 20 years ago, a single case performed by surgeon Benson Roe. There was no established program for heart transplantation until this year.

Carlos' guests at his lobster fete were his wife Bess, 7 Long head nurse Jennifer Dickman (center), clinical nurse Janet Adamson (right) and clinical nurse specialist Pat Sparacino (rear).

UCSF: Major Center for Transplantation

With this newest addition, UCSF now has a total of seven transplant programs—kidney, liver, heart, bone marrow, cornea, middle ear tissue and bone—and a pancreas program is coming.

- The UCSF Kidney Transplant Service is the largest program of its kind in the world. More than 3,200 transplant procedures have been performed in its 25 years of existence. It is one of only a few in the country that transplants kidneys in both adults and children, even as small as 6.5 pounds. Oscar Salvatierra is chief.
- The UCSF Liver Transplant Service, now in its second year, has performed 68 procedures—57 adults and seven children—with four retransplants. The service has evaluated more than 200 patients. Nancy Ascher directs the service and Jack Lake is medical coordinator.
- All three types of bone marrow transplant services are provided for both children and adults: Matched, in which there is genetic similarity between donor and recipient; partially matched, in which there is only partial genetic similarity between donor and recipient and donor marrow is specially processed to reduce severe reactions; and autologous, in which the patient donates his or her own marrow during the early stages of the disease or during remission and then receives it back following radiation and/or drug therapy for the disease involved. Morton Cowan is director of the pediatric program; Curt Ries is acting director of the adult program.
- Corneal transplants have been performed at UCSF since the 1950s through the Department of Ophthalmology, chaired by Steve Kramer.
- Middle ear tissue transplantation is performed by otologist Robert Schindler and otolaryngologist Robert Jackler. About 40 patients a year undergo this procedure.
- The UCSF Bone Transplant Service performs both collection and transplantation of bone tissue. An average 100 patients a year undergo bone transplantation using donor tissue. Long-term followup studies are currently being conducted. Harry Skinner is medical director.

Transplant programs are widespread, but the difference in the UCSF approach is the degree of cooperation between surgery, medicine and pediatrics; and the fact that the transplant programs are closely woven into the research programs on campus.

Tissue typing and laboratory work for transplantation is carried out through the UCSF Immunogenetics and Transplantation Lab, which also serves eight other transplant programs in the Bay Area and is one of the three largest labs of its kind in the US.

UCSF receives donor organs and other tissues for transplantation through its participation in the California Transplant Donor Network, a regional organization dedicated to organ procurement in the northern and central areas of the state; and through its membership in the United Network for Organ Sharing, a national transplant registry.

You'd Be Smiling Too if You Just Won $500

At last week's reception honoring clinical nurse IIIs, 21 nurses—one from each unit in the four nursing divisions—were honored for excellence in clinical practice and leadership. Then all these names went into a hat for a drawing, and one nurse from each division came up the winner of $500. The winners: (left to right) CCU's Celia Rifkin, 12 Long's Laurie McCullagh, ICN's Lila Param, and the Surgery Center's Betsy Cuthbertson (not pictured).

Master of Ceremonies Helen Ripple mentioned that the prize money was provided by an anonymous donor, but Linda Mann grabbed the microphone long enough to blurt out the initials of the of the mystery donor: HBR.

There are approximately 150 clinical nurse IIIs practicing in the Medical Center. In addition to the four named above, the following were honored:

From the Medical/Surgical Division:
Leslie Buhlman, 9 Long
Cindy Reno-Balkstra, 10 Long
Kristy Drewry, 11 Long
Jane Perlas, 11 Moffitt
Eden Rivera, 14 Long
Gilda Alas, 14 KTU

From Maternal Child Health:
Bev Baacke, PICU
Nancy Yamagiwa, 6 Long Medicine
Janet Jaskula, 6 Long Surgery
Kathy Safford, 15 Perinatal Services

From Critical Care:
Anna Frankfurt, 8 NICU
Flora Fung, 8 Long
Julie Hauke, 8 NE
Karen Dukes, 7 ICU
Arthur Cantos, 7 Long

From the OR:
Mary Zamboukos, Post Anesthesia
Gigi Warner, OR

The clinical nurse III reception was one of several events held in conjunction with National Nurses Day on May 6.
